TR. J. EMANUEL, Surgeon-Dentist, Member of the College of Surgest sof Leyden and Utrecht, continues to surply the Loss of terth, from one to a complete set, upon his real-virul statum of supplying artificial recommended by numerous physicians and surgeons of New South Wales, as being the most ingenious method of supplying artificial teeth hitherto invented. They are so contrived as to adapt themselves over the most tender gums or remaining stumps, without causing the least pain, rendering the operation of extraction quite unnecessary. They are so fixed as to sasten any Lose terms, by forming a new gum where the gums have shaunk from the use of calomel or other causes, without the aid of any wirks or springs; and above all, are firmer in the mouth, and fixed with that attention to nature as to astonish the most sceptical. Mr. E. also begs to invite those not liking to undergo any painful operation, as practised by most members of the profession, to inspect his painless but expective systems. Specimens, from one to a complete sex, may be seen at his residence daily. And in order that his residence daily. And in order that his residence daily. By the late arrivals, the bonnet rooms have been replenished with the most fashionable shapes, in Rice, Rutland, Dunstable, Tuscan, and Leghorn bonnets.

It will be seen on a fair perusal of the above list of goods, that they are of the very best quality, and when buyers consider the very reduced prices at which they will be sold, it is manifestly to their interest to purchase at the Bez-Hivz. More than this, every article connected with the trade may be had at this Establishment, of which a good and wellassorted stock is always kept on hand.

This is an advantage (which cannot be secured at all houses in the trade) particularly to up-country people, as they may be supplied with all the articles they require, without the usual trouble of running to nearly all the shops in town before they can obtain the necessary supplies to suit the immediate demands. This is a fact which should be particularly borne in mind by "Up-country Settlers," as from not being enabled to procure their supplies of goods at a short notice, they are obliged to remain in Sydney for a longer time than under other circumstances, they would do, and by which their affidis are very often seriously neglected, owing to their length of absence from home

It will also be apparent to parties residing in town, that in order to complete their family supplies, they cannot do better than pay a visit to the BEE HIVE, where every attention will be strictly paid to their demands, and where they may depend upon the articles purchased being of first-rate quality, and of real good value.

THE GARDEN is cropped, well manured prolific of the best esculents, and also filled with almost every description of fine fruits, especially of the rarer kind, as "cherry and plum." The grounds are highly improved by a well placed and refreshing reservoir of water, and the whole is contributive of all that judicious care and taste, which shew at once immense productiven as going "hand in hand" with the most agreeable ornamental appearances, and without imposing, now that all first cost is over, much expense on the pocket of the proprietor.

The situation is, of all about Sydney, the most airy, and the atmosphere most salubrious. In fact, nothing can be more all in all in itself, for any merchant, professional man, or gentleman, whose occupation in town requires only an easy walk to daily office business—say in town by nine o'clock any morning across the park.

Tryphone, brig, 131 tons, Hindmarsh; 40 tons copper ore, on board.

The Kestwi reports having spoken the Merops, of Sydney, Captain Hogg, on the 27th September, in the Sooloo Sea, with 500 barrels sperm oil. The Kestwel was then on her passage from Balli to China; Captain Hogg boarded them, and stated that owing to the insubordination of his chief officer and crew, he had been compelled to put into Manila, where he had discharged the chief part of them. The person who left Sydney in the capacity of second mate was acting as mate when Captain Beauvais spoke them. On the 5th March, at 2 r.m., in Base's Straits, when the Kestwi was passing through between Craggy Island and Wright's Rock, they saw breakers stretching apparently N and S., and when in a line between the two, they bore N.W. W. and S.E. J.E., the southermnost island of Kent's Giroup W. by N. J.N. At 2:30 passed within a cable's length of a rock about four feet above the level of the water, bearing from Wright's Rock, N. by W., Craggy Island W. J.N., supposed to be Endeavour Rock, although its position is stated to be different in Horsburgh's Directory. The brig Challenger was to leave China for Sydney a short time after the Kestvel. The Bilise has met with a series of gales of wind and calms, which, together with her being too heavily laden, accounts for the long passage she has made. The following vessels are reported by her:—Decomber 3rd, spoke the burque Palmyrs, from Liverpool to Shanghao, 31 days out, in lat. 39° 3′ S, long. 50° 10′ E. March lat, spoke the barque Augustus, from New Zesland to Adelaide, with a great number of steerage passengers on board, 31 days out, Cape Bridgewater bearing east nouth-cast, distant feety miles.

The brig Sarah, from Sydney, November 18th, arrived at Hongkong on the 6th January. The Alligator, Captain Cook, and the Isabella Anna, Captain Beard, were at Hongkong on the 8th January; also the Swedish brigantine Bull.

The brig Mauro, hence October 20th, arrived at Manila the 3rd December. The Lord Peter left Manila for London on the 6th December.

H.M. S. Festal, Captain Tabbot, arrived from Sydney on Friday the 26th instant, jutting us in possession of papers to the 21st ultimo. This fine frigate has made an unprecedented passage of thirty five days; and since put in commission many of her other runs have proved that for speed she is surpassed by few vessels in the navy. She sailed from England on the 16th of January, from New York on the 27th of February, Rio de Janeiro 18th of May, Monte Video 15th of August, Cape of Good Hope 19th of September, Hobart Town last of November, and Sydney 22nd ultimo. It is mentioned in the Hobart Town papers that she accomplished half the run from the Cape to that port in fourteen days, and but for a heavy. S. E. gale which she accompted the to that port in fourteen days, and but for a heavy S E gale which she encountered, the heavy S. E. gale which she encountered, the entire passage would not have taken more than twenty-eight days. The Vestal is a sister ship to the Iris: they are equally beautiful in appearance, and allowed by naval men to be a serviceable class of ships, of greater capacity than the old thirty-two gun frigates, though they only carry twenty-six, but all heavy guns. She spoke the brig Sir John Byng in lat. 1' 49' N., long. 159' 44' E., thirty days from Sydney to Manila.—Friend of China, January 1.

THE CONVICT SYSTEM IN VAN

on board.

nisotime, barque, 359 tons, Sim; 188 casks tallow, 800 bales wool, 400 hides, and 4 casks tallow, 800 bales wool, 400 hides, and 4 casks tallow, 500 bales wool, 100 tuns black oil, 8 tuns sperm oil, 1686 hides, 486 casks tallow, 200 bags shank bones, 3 tons old copper, 270 bags shank bones, 3 tons old copper, HAVING glanced at the social and moral evils with which the Convict System has n cruel aggravation of the m we are prepared to assert that no imaginable concessions on the part of HER MAcolonists for the miseries thus entailed call the quixotic offer to employ the whole thirty thousand convicts on works purely colonial, and to maintain the entire charge of the police and gaol establish-ment at the expense of the British treasury, could expiate the national guilt, or check the pestilential ravages, involved in that accursed system. Let Ministerial liberality be carried out to the utmost verge; let it be announced that the Queen's Government have given up all wish to derive pecuniary returns for convict services; that they are willing to transfer the whole of those returns to the colony, without a single reservation, and to relieve the local revenue of every farthing of outlay, direct or indirect, for convict purposes, and even to re-imburse whatever has been so laid out during the last five years : why even then, Van Diemen's Land would still have resson to denounce the system as one of unmitigated abomination. Carried on as that system is, it admits of neither relief nor compensation. Silver and gold can do much; but they cannot recompense individuals or communities for the loss of virtue, character, peace, and happiness; they cannot reconcile upright minds to tamination which renders the neighbouring island a byword of reproach. No such romantic liberality, however, has been asked or expected. We learn from the SECRETARY OF STATE's despatch, published in our number of Thursday, that nothing more has been proposed by Sir Earner Wilmort, in the shape of compromise, than that in consideration of the sum of £4000 per annum being paid by the Colonial to the British Treasury, all the otherwise unemployed convicts should be employed in executing public colonial works. We repeat, this boon would be no equivalent for the sufferings endured by our convict-ridden brethren. But this boon His LORDSHIP sternly refuses, since such an arrangement would imply "the tacit assertion on the one hand, and the tacit admission on the other, of maxims or opi-

Why, then, was transportation discontinued here? For reasons just as applicable to the younger colony as to the elder. The enquiries of the Tranportation Committee of the House of Commons, in the year 1838, led to the conclusion, that the system was radically and incurably rotten; "that the two main characteristics of transportation, as a punishment, are inefficiency in deterring from crime, and remarkable efficiency, not in reforming, but in still further corrupting, those wh undergo the punishment; that these quali-ties of inefficiency for good and efficiency for evil are inherent in the system, which therefore is not susceptible of any satisfactory improvement; and, lastly, that there belongs to the system, extrinsically from its strange character as a punishment, the yet more curious and me evil of calling into existence, and continually extending, societies or the germs of nations thoroughly depraved, as respects both the character and degree of their vicious propensities. Your Committee, therefore, are of opinion that the present system of transportation should be

With its inefficiency as a form of ounishment, the colonists have not much o do : that is a question chiefly interesting to the mother country. It is in "the yet more curious and monstrous evil" so well described by the Committee, that the which Van Diemen's Land is now groaning, but of which Lord STANLEY denies their right to complain. The system was abolished in this country on the broad abolished in this country of the block ground of its incompatibility with our moral welfare as a people. The idle plea that New South Wales " was a penal settlement before it was a colony," was not thought by the Commons Committee worthy of a moment's notice. There was nothing in it then, there is nothing in it now, as applied to the one colony or the now, as applied to the one colony or the other. The true putting of the case is this: Van Diemen's Land, like New South Wales, was founded as a penal settlement, and has grown into a colony. It has so grown, not in spite of the ho Government, but under its auspices, with its sanction and encouragement. And as it was found, by a parliamentary committee, that either the penal settlement must be given up, or the colony be irretrievso far as it applied to New South Wales, was adopted and carried out by the British Government ; it follows, that Lord STAN-LRY's plea is not only frivolous as a piec of reasoning, but in direct violation of a principle already solemnly settled. Van Diemen's Land must be delivered from its penal character, or as a British colony its fate is sealed. Another ground upon which the despatch rejects the LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR'S proposition is, that if the colony cannot afford to employ the convicts on rial terms, they may be advantageously employed in preparing the waste lands of writer seems to chuckle in the idea, that enefit may be derived from the working of his own Land Act. The lands thus prepared by convict labour will thereby be o enhanced in exchangable value, as eventually to repay, by the higher prices realised from sales, the first outlay of British money. In forming this brilliant conception, his LORDSHIP must have overooked two rather material facts. Pirst that in that island the Crown has scarcely any land capable of improvement and, secondly, that even if it had, there would be no purchasers. If the present system of transportation be continued, immigration can never be revived. Transrtation and colonization cannot coexist. The virtuous families already settled in Van Diemen's Land cannot long remain there amid the growing horrors which surround them. Many of them are anxiously meditating a removal to the more favoured colonies. And sure we are, if they do not remove voluntarily, they will soon be compelled to flee from that moral pest-house. With this flattering prospect before him, of no immigration tion out of it, we should like to know where Lord STANLEY expects to find purchasers for his convict-cleared farms.

In concluding, for the present, our observations on this painful subject—a subject in which New South Wales, whither so many of the Van Diemen's Land expirees repair, has no small stake —we cannot forbear to express our regret that the Legislative Council of the island should have so tamely brooked the indig nities heaped upon their adopted country With few exceptions, they are a set of tame, crouching imbeciles, who seem dis-posed to submit to any terms prescribed to them by the powers that be. The colonists have thus no resource but to take the matter into their own hands, and, in the constitutional form of petition, to beseech the Throne and both Houses of Parliament to save them from the utter ever, created some anxiety.

All our papers—the Cape Town Journal, the Zuid Afrikaan, and the Graham's Town Journal-speak confidently of the successful advancement of the colony both east and west; and the Government, as at present constituted, is popular.

The whole of the papers refer with minuteness to the Sydney export of tallow; they congratulate themselves on an in crease in the export of wool, and they refer to the Societies established for the encouragement of exports, especially of wool, for the high prices realised in the sales of Cape wool in England in 1844. It appears that there were three "cups" offered for the three best samples of wool; £50, £30, and £25; the prices realized for the prize wools were 2s. 10d., 2s. 5d., and 2s. 3d., the highest known for Cape wools, and the first price, 2s. 10d., was, according to the Broker, above the value, and realized only in consequence of the colour produced by the washing, and extreme care in packing, and not on account of the fibre.

Of the Wines-there is still greater implaint than we have made of our infant vineyards, but additional prizes had been offered for the next vintage; and it was expected that the wine-farmers would not neglect so important a branch of their export trade. The Cape colony had apparently been freed from the locust pests and their crops promised well; but rains, heavy and almost constant, had materially impeded the operations of the agriculturists; nevertheless there was not anticipated any danger of the necessity for the grain imports of the two preceding

We shall probably return to the paper for extracts, especially with respect to the wool and wine exports; and to the latter we shall call the especial attention of the wine-growers of New South Wales in future papers.

PREFERABLE LIEN ACT AND SOL-

THE Governor has been pleased to direct, that the following extracts from a Despatch No. 156, dated Downing-street, 28th October, 1844, addressed to His Excellency by the Right Honorable Lord Stanley, Secretary of State for the Colonies, be published for general informa-tion:—

Honorable Lord Stanley, Secretary of State for the Colonies, be published for general information:—

Extract No. 1.—PREFERANTE LIEN ACT.

The Act No. 3, dated the 15th September, 1843, and initialed "An Act to give a preferable lien on Wool from season to season, and to make mortgages of sheep, cattle, and horses, valid, without delivering to the mortgages," is a measure so irreconcilably opposed to the principles of legislation immemorially recognised in this country, respecting the alienation or pledging of things moveable, that under any other circumstances than those in which the colony has unhappily been involved, it would not have been in my power to decline the unwelcome duty of advising Her Majesty to disallow it. The same circumstances may, perhaps, furnish an apology for an enactment, tending so directly to give unwonted facilities for borrowing money, and increasing the evil of excessive credit, under the ponalties of which the colonists have so long and so severely laboured. But while I am ready to admit, that embarrasaments so overwhelming may have justified innovations otherwise indefensible, I must not less distinctly deny, that they afford any valid plea for a permanent departure from those established rules, to which all theory all experience alike lend their sanction. The disasters of New South Wales will ere iong have passed away, but there will remain on the Colonial Statute Book, a Law, expressly authorising transactions which the Law of England regards as affording the conclusive indication of fraud. It is a law which will place society at the mercy of any dishonest borrower, and which will stimulate the speculative spirit which it is so important to discourage.

The official transcript of this Act was received at this Office, on the 22nd July, 1844, consequently, on the 22nd July, 1846, it will become unalterable by Her Majesty's authority, unless disallowed before that day. I have therefore to acquaint you, that unless the intelligence of the repeal of this law shall reach this Office by the 22nd day of July, 1816, it will, on the approach of that day, be disallowed by the Queen in Council.

Extract No. 2.—Solvent Derrous' Acr.

The Act No. 4, entitled, "An Act to prevent the waste of the property of Debtors under the process of Law," may be vindicated by the apology I have already mentioned. As that law will expire in little more than two years from its date, the Queen will not disallow it; but neither can Her Majesty be advised expressly to sanction it:—Until it shall have expired by lapse of time, it will therefore continue to operate. But you will understand yourself as being distinctly prohibited from again assenting to a law enabling a debtor to continue in possession of his property, and to avoid the ordinary legal responsibility to any

WHEAT.—Fince our last report of the 8th instant, the Joseph Cripps has come in from Launceston with a eargo of wheat for Mesars. Thos. Barker and Co., which their agents had purchased at 2s. 8d. per bushel. This has caused some depression in the market, and the price of good colonial may now be quoted at from 3s. to 3s. 2d. Since last report seventyloads of wheat have paid dues at the Corn Market, the prices given for which have ranged from 2s. 6d to 3s. 2d. per bushel; the average price given at the Corn Market has been about 2s. 10d. per bushel

FLOUR.—There is a total absence of speculation, and the business is entirely confined to the wants of the inhabitants At the mills, the usual quantity of flour is being sold, and the price of fine is quoted firm at £8 10s. per ton cash.

Biscutt.—Since the reduction of the price to ded. per bushel, a large quantity has been sold, and the millers report a ready sale at that price.

Biscutt.—No. 1 biscuit, 15s., and No. 2 biscuit, 11s. per ewt.

Bran.—Since the reduction of the price to pardons: 670 are prisoners in New South Wales; and 36 have been reconvicted of crime. The number of reconvictions appears remarkably small, considering the description of the men, their going penniless from this island, the suspicion with which they are regarded in Sydney, and the associates to whom they return. The author then proceeded to show that in the years in which he had the charge of this convicts when they are regarded in Sydney being only 1½ per cent. in four years, or ½ per cent. per annum. Previously, in 1839, the convicts underwent the greatest severity—the lashes inflicted, by sentence, for offences, were 11,420. The paper mext treated of those prisoners who had been sent from Norfolk Island to Sydney for trial, charged with serious offences; the next section treated of men who had absconded, with interesting details regarding each of these successful entst-prises, which were attended with great daring, hazard, recklessness, suffering, and peril. The author then gives statistical notices of men who have died on the island from natural causes. Those prisoners who had been sent from Sydney, where they had become seasoned to the climate, and had enjoyed full rations of food, appeared to have been less saubject to disease than those who were sent to Norfolk Island direct from England. Of the former, in a population of 80,059, there had been sent from Sydney, where they had become seasoned to the climate, and had enjoyed full rations of food, appeared to have been less saubject to disease than those who were sent to Norfolk Island direct from England. had their hats and bonnets trimmed with black riband or crayse. As each person entered he was greeted by the brethren, and a general shaking of hands took place, and a smart conversation, in loud tones, was kept up throughout the meeting. At the end of the room was a pulpit hung with black cloth, and in and around it were a faw men who were spoken of as the 'priests,' elders,' and 'teachers.' In the pulpit was a man named Cairns, from Nauvoo. I learned from one of the brethren that this was a sort of 'conference meeting,' to ascertain the state of 'conference meeting,' to ascertain the state of 'conference meeting,' to ascertain the fatte of the shurch in the Glasgow conference. Suddenly a man rose up, and moved that brother Cairns be appointed president for the day. Another person was called to another office, the precise purport of which I could not hear. A Payer was then made, and a hymn sung, after whish Cairns stood up and said—' You are met this morning to receive a report from the churches represented in the Glasgow conference. We want to understand the exact number and tanding of the saints. We want to know what effect the murder of our beloved prophet has had upon the saints, and upon the well round about. Be brief and to the point, and don't sermoniae, but give us facts.' He then called upon a number of delegates, who reported as follows:—

NUMBER OF MEMBERS.

NUMBERS OF MEMBERS.

Kilbirnie said, that the saints of Kilbirnie shed team of sorrow w.n. they heard of the murder of their beloved prophet; 'they took it as a testimony that his work was of God.' Another delegate said, that 'many sain... in this place would willingly have taken a bayonet to defaul the prophet, and that they were quite ready now to revenge his death.' Cairns—'Oh, God will do that, brother.'—The delegate: 'Yes, but I should think he will use men as his instruments.' The delegate from Campgate: 'Yes, but I should think he will use men as his instruments.' The delegate from Campsis appeared to stumble in his faith. He said, 'I must confess that with us, there were those who hardly expected the prophet would die We didn't believe it at first, for we expected he would live to lead on the people of God, and perhaps to be President of America. But, as I said to them, maybe the prophet had done wrong. However, after a little, they became reconciled, and thought it was all right; still many of them think that perhaps God will bring him to life again. Which may God grant. Amen!' Whereupon the meeting cried out 'Amen!' Towards the close, Cairns read a letter, which he said was from a postumster who lived about 105 miles from Nauvoo, giving an account of Smith's death. It stated that Smith knew he was about to die, for he called the church together, and appointed a successor, and 10 days before his death he gave orders to he church together, and appointed a successor, and 10 days before his death he gave orders to the Glasgow Latter-Day Saints appeared eagur enough to swallow."

A letter from New York states—"By the last accounts from Nauvoc the city was quiet. There had been reports of the appointment of Smith's son, a mere lad, as a prophet, but they are unfounded. Sidney Rigdon had returned to the city from Pittsburgh, and preached, Samuel Smith, a brother of the late prophet, is now also dead. Rigdon, it is said, will be chosen to lead the Mormon flock. He is their master spirit, and will make a shrewd and energetic leader. Of all the fanatics which have made their appearance during the past century in the United States, these are the most extraordinary. There are five widows of the Smith family aow living in Nauvoo, or the Holy City; the mother of all, and the wives of the late Joe, Hiram, and their two brothers. Accessions to the Mormons continue to be made. Their temple is steadily going up, in its unique form and shape."

lately occupied by Messrs. M'Kellar and White, Goulburn.

The machinery consists of a ten-horse power boiler, with four wooden vats to which two others may be added, if required, convenience for that purpose being provided, and a capital force pump.

The premises to be let on lease for three years and a half, with or without the machinery; there are $50 acres of paddocka, well fenced in, and a pump with a never-failing supply of wa'er.

To parties connected with Boiling-down Establishments, either in Sydney or the interior, the above affords an excellent opportunity for investment of capital, as a great saving may be effected in the expense of bringing down cattle, &c., from the interior, as well as making provisions for preparing tallow for the English market.

N.B. The whole of the above-mentioned machinery may be easily removed in twelve hours from the premises for use in any other part of the Colony

For particulars apply to Mr. William Craig, Inversallochy, or to Mr. M'Kellar, Goulbarn, who will show the premises, &c., and give any necessary information.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE: FRONTIER POLICY: THE COLONIAL OFFICE.

(From the Colonial Gazette.)

In another part of this day's publication the reader will find Lord Stanley's reply to the memorials and statements respecting the eastern frontier of the Cape colony transmitted last year by the settlers. It is characterised by the same reckless indifference to the shedding of British blood—the same pseudo-sentimental determination to hold up savages as counterparts of Rousseau's dream-pictures of them, which has recently disgusted every reflecting mind in the tone adopted by the Colonial Office and its organs, when speaking of the affairs of New Zealand.

There is a systematic misrepresentation of all

Colonial Office and its organs, when speaking of the affairs of New Zealand.

There is a systematic misrepresentation of all transactions between British settlers and savages goes on in the Colonial Office. Lord Stanley is a systematically deceived, and all his predecessors have been systematically deceived. There is a paramount influence in the Colonial Office of which time serving officials in the colonies are well aware. They shape their reports so as to suit the purposes of this influence, and it further moulds them so as to delude the ostensible Secretary for the Colonies into connivance with its policy. A glance back at the history of the Colonial Office will show what this influence is.

From the time of the American war till the year 1794 there was no colonial department: the business of the colonies was transacted at the Home Office. To relieve the plethora of business, a third Secretary of State was created about the close of the last century, to whom was intrusted the war department and the colonies. In the heat and engrossing excitement of the great European war, the colonies were little attended to. And, in truth, the loss of the American colonies, and the undervaluing of those provinces which remained on the mainland of America, appear to have produced an impression on public men that Great Britain had no colonies except the West Indies and New South Wales. New South Wales was, at that time, no colony, but a great penitentiary. The West Indies were in disfavour on account of slavery. What between positive distaste, and what from other more attractive business, the new Colonial Secretaries, till the close of the war, scarcely heeded the colonies. It was about this time that Mr. Macaulay, in a communication to the Duke of Sussex, stated that the Colonial Office would do whatever they vided that they would save it the trouble of thinking.

A short time before the close of the war, a squabble between the "Secretary at War with the Colonies"—as he has sometimes not unptly been named—and the Horse Guards elicited an order in Council which prevented further tampering by the department with most of the details of army management. Since that time the third Secretary of State for the time being, probably for want of anything better to do, has bestowed more of his attention on the colonies. A Colonial Office has gradually crept into existence. What organisation this department has, it received mainly under the incumbency of Lord Bathurst ganisation this department has mainly under the incumbency of Lord Bathurs mainly under the incumbency of Lord Bathurs mainly under the incumbency of Lord Bathurst—a good-natured, easy, not over-brilliant, statesman, completely under the influence of Mr. Wilberforce, By the interest of Mr. Wilberforce, or of the party which he led, Mr. Stephen was created legal adviser to the office, and by Mr. Stephen in the capacity of legal adviser (and for the last year or two of undersecretary) has the office been made and managed ever since.

and by Mr. Stephen in the capacity of legal adviser (and for the last year or two of undersecretary) has the office been made and managed ever since.

The department organised under these auspices has proved exactly what might have been anticipated. It has been framed and administered in the spirit of a branch committee of the Anti-slavery or Aborigines Protection Society. It has neglected all really colonial business, and lent itself heart and soul, per fas aut nefes, to the propagation of the faith as it is at Exeter Hall. The rapid and incessant change of Ministers of late years has constantly been introducing into the Colonial Office, for a brief term, Secretaries of State entirely ignorant of colonial affairs. This has placed them under the control of the head of the office—of the man who made it what it is. Whoever has been Colonial Secretary, Mr. Stephen has been "viceroy over him." In the person of Mr. Stephen, Exeter Hall, in all its varied phases, is paramountfun the Colonial Office. Mr. Stephen was placed there to promote the views of the Puritan, the Wilberforce party: their views, and the means of promoting them, are the limits of his knowledge and ambition; of colonial policy he is lamentably and grossly ignorant; and his system is, to shuffle off all colonial business as long as possible, and do the business of his sect and party. This is the "power behind the Throne stronger than the Throne" of the Colonial Office; this is the influence which blinds and misleads every Colonial Minister; this is the agency to which the colonies are indebted for neglect and misrule and misrepresentation.

The Cape colony has been the scene of the greatest triumph of this sinister influence. An unprovoked and murderous incursion of the Kaiirs had terminated in the subjugation of all their tribes under the government of Sir Benjamin D'Urban. A masterly system of governorship in Kafirland, combining justice to the natives with assurance of security to the frontier settlers, was established by that enlightened Governo frontier policy as impressed the committee with a high notion of his abilities. He slan dered his fellow-colonists and the local Go with a high notion of his abilities. He slandered his fellow-colonists and the local Government without stint or stay. He won, in short, the heart of Mr. Stephen. It was decreed that all Governor D'Urban's arrangements should be overturned; and Mr. Stockenstrom was sent out with the title of Lieutenant-Governor to do the job. The plundering and murdering by Kafirs on the frontier recommenced. This excited the indignation of the colonists, already angry enough at seeing a man rewarded with money and honours for slandering them. The new Lieutenant-Governor was forced to cower before the storm. He was superseded. But the mischief was done. The Cape colony frontier has ever since been insecure; and from that insecurity, and the contemptuous neglect with which all complaints were received, has arisen in no small degree the embarrassing emigration of the Dutch Boers. Despair of protection and redress is leading men to apprehend a fresh swarm of emigrents from the colony. And this is the moment selected by the master of the Colonial Office to dictate to Lord Stanley the supercilious and unsatisfactory reply which has been returned to the complaints of the frontier colonists, and which is well calculated to unite Dutch and English in one common spirit of disaffection.

The commentary of the Graham's Town

Caurence of England.—The Archbishop held a Visitation at Maidstone, on 24th of September. After prayers and a sermon by the Rev. H. Vallance, his Grace proceeded to the delivery of the charge: the most important part of which is the following:—"With the prospects which are opening before me, and with the fullest persuasion that the Great Head of the Church will not abandon his ministers while they do him faithful service, I look forward with hope, although I am not altogether free from anxiety, as to the future destinies of our Church. It is not from direct violence without, but from dissensions within, that I apprehend immediate danger, and what may eventually be the result of her external dissensions, and the differences now existing within her own bosom, if they should proceed to extreme lengths, it is painful to contemplate. If ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye are not consumed one of another, was the warning of the aposle St. Paul to the Gallatians. I am far from asserting that that language is applicable in all its significancy to the state of our own Church, but I fear there is enough of disunion to weaken those resources which, if applied in conjunction, might much more effectually aid the common object of promoting the glory of God and the happiness of our fellow-countrymen, than it can be promoted whilst that disunion is to be found, which, unfortunately, it is notorious does now exist amongst us. By these indications of discord the hopes of the Romanists have been raised, without any sufficient ground, I fully believe. From the extent of the resources at their command, and from the unity of purpose which marks all their proceedings, they have succeeded in making an impression on our colonies; but, notwithstanding the gigantic resources which they possess, their success in this country will, in all probability, be limited to a few converts. At the time of our separation from Rome, it was satisfactorily shown that we could not partake of her communion without partaking of her sins; as f mination of her ministers to act cordially together in the discharge of the duties assigned to them, abstaining from unprofitable controversies, or from an indulgence in rancour through slight differences (for differences must needs exist), but discussing them with temper, and with no other desire than that of elucidating the truth.

In speaking thus of the Church I do not deny the existence of piety, or the hope of salvation out of its pale: but, as all revelation proceeds from one blessed lord, I can hardly be wrong in the belief that He who brought down the Word to the Church from on high, has also provided the means of transmitting it to all generations."
